Cook accompanied the team to Clarinda and will play his first game today. Two new players will probably play with the Comets, one being a new first baseman—Bacon, secured from Nebraska City, and who played in Saturday's game at that place, and a general utility man, McDermott, from Emmetsburg, Ia. Oswalt will pitch in the game this afternoon. Pitcher Lark was released Monday by the management.

Will Give Reception.

A reception will be given to the State Normal students next Friday evening at the First Christian church by the members of the Philathea and Good Fellow classes of the Bible school. A business meeting of the two classes is called for Tuesday evening to make arrangements for the reception. All are urgently requested to be present.

Miss Beaumont, "Toastmistress."

For the first time, a woman will preside as toastmaster at the annual banquet of the Central High School Alumni association of St. Joseph, which will be held Tuesday night at the Hotel Robidoux. Miss Anna Lee Beaumont is the young woman on whom that honor has just been conferred. She is teacher of English in the Central high school. Miss Beaumont is well known socially in Maryville, having visited here as the guest of Miss Lulu Todd and Miss Helen Leffler.

W. R. C. Entertained.

The Woman's Relief Corps met informally at the home of Mrs. S. H. Townsend, on East Fourth street, Saturday afternoon for a social time in honor of Mrs. Hugh McIntosh and Mrs. M. M. Deming, who are moving to their new home in Omaha. The afternoon was very pleasantly spent, although there was a deeply regretful feeling that the Corps would lose two of the most valuable members it has had.

Professor Emberson to Wed.

Professor R. H. Emberson, formerly of the department of pedagogy of the Northwest Normal, but now of the faculty of the college of agriculture of the state university, is to be married this week to Miss Lulu Guthrie of St. Louis, formerly of Columbia. The Columbia Tribune of Saturday said:

"Prof. R. H. Emberson of the faculty of the college of agriculture of the University of Missouri, where he holds the chair of rural education, will marry Miss Lulu Guthrie, formerly of Columbia, and remembered here as a popular teacher in the public schools. The license to marry was issued to Professor Emberson yesterday.

"Professor Emberson is one of the best known educators in Missouri, was for several years superintendent of schools here, and is the first man in the United States to hold a chair of rural education. As a member of the university faculty, Professor Emberson has toured Missouri in the interest of better schools, has visited most of the counties in the state, and is known personally to most of the school teachers of the state. On these trips, many of them through the heart of the Ozarks, where it was necessary to go horseback or afoot to reach remote districts, Professor Emberson has gathered valuable data regarding the rural schools, and is regarded as the best informed man on this subject to be found in the state. His manly character and progressive spirit have won him friends all over Missouri."

PAPER DRINKING CUP

A SANITARY DRAUGHT WITHIN REACH OF EVERYBODY.

6-INCH SQUARE OF PAPER

Makes a Fresh, Clean Cup from Which to Drink Whenever and Wherever Desired.

Prof. Shepard, manual training instructor at the Normal, is teaching the students how to make individual paper drinking cups. Their many advantages, cheapness and the ease with which they are made will probably be of interest to many people.

Oiled paper is preferable for making these cups, but any clean paper, such as writing paper or drawing paper may be used. This paper should be cut into square sheets. A sheet five or six inches square makes a convenient size. Now take one of these sheets and fold it on the diagonal, making a triangle. Then fold each of the two upper corners—that is, the corners opposite the first fold made—down so that their tips come close to the bottom of the sheet where the first fold was made. The farther down these upper corners are turned the smaller will be the cup. Now temporarily straighten these two corners out again. Then fold the two lower corners in so that their outer or separate edges lie along the folds made by the two upper corners. The lower corners should be folded on opposite sides of the cup to give more stability. Next fold the upper corners down again, each on its respective side and outside of all other folds. Open the cup with the fingers and it is ready for use, to be thrown away and a new one made next time. Or, if it is absolutely necessary to use the same cup over again it can be flattened out, occupying practically no space at all.

Such a cup can be made at any time, is at least five times cheaper than the commercial paper cup which is obtained by dropping a penny in the slot, and occupies less space than any other cup made.

For travelers it is almost indispensable. They often find themselves in a place where the law forbids the use of a public drinking cup and no provision for individual cups has been made. Many people have actually experienced painful thirst in such conditions. Five cents worth of oiled paper can be slipped into any suitcase, grip or shopping bag and is enough to make twenty cups.

The use of such a cup in the schools would be a great benefit. It has an advantage over the individual cups of tin which many children carry to school, inasmuch as it is used only once and has no chance to collect dust. And children are not overly careful of the cleanliness of their possessions. Each child would have a package of the sheets of oiled paper in his desk or a large amount of it could be kept in the room for general use, and each one could make a cup as he needed it.

The value of such a cup from the sanitary standpoint alone is invaluable, and its cheapness puts it within the reach of all. Its use by the people of the community would be a great benefit to everybody.

DIETZ HAD CAUSE FOR TROUBLE IN NEB. CITY

We knew that Dietz had cause for his trouble in Nebraska City last week. There had been a little dispute on the grounds, and the umpire had sent Dietz back to his position behind the plate. That evening the umpire visited a saloon or two, and coming out upon the streets began to abuse Dietz profanely to a crowd of fans, not knowing that our little catcher was within hearing. Dietz stood the insults as long as he could and then taught the umpire a lesson by knocking him down. When consciousness again came to the fallen man he apologized to Dietz for his actions, and all personal enmity was smoothed. As the trouble was entirely personal and took place off the ball grounds, nothing was done to Dietz by the officers of the league.

Miss Clara Shrader of Pickering was taken to the hospital Monday morning by Dr. J. R. Heryford, where she underwent an operation.

HOW TO CARE FOR TREES

The Method Used By the Superintendent of Grounds at Washington Worthy of Study.

By VAN CLEVE.

Washington, D. C., June 8.—Those of our friends who have valuable orchards, sometimes unprofitable from want of proper attention might get a valuable lesson from the care and study devoted to the preservation of the trees about the capitol grounds here in Washington. The many beautiful trees that adorn these grounds include specimens from every similar climate in the world, and much attention is given them to keep them in healthy condition and to preserve their beauty.

Through the summer season these trees are sprayed with different solutions with portable sprays in which the water is forced to a considerable height by pressure from a gasoline engine. The tank and engine are mounted on wheels and the machine costs about $1,200. The superintendent of the grounds says that many who attempt to spray make the mistake of throwing the solution over the tree so that it falls on top of the leaf. The top surface of a leaf is hard and glazed and the insects that destroy the leaves invariably work on the under side, because that is tender and palatable. He therefore has the hose taken in under the tree and throws the solution up from under the tree. As men do not want the poisonous solution to fall upon them more than is necessary, they stand next to the trunk of the tree and ply the hose under the outer edge first, and then step out and throw it up close to the center of the foliage.

Just in front of the capitol building stands a huge elm which has had unusual care. It is said to be about 200 years old, and bears the distinction of having furnished shade for General Washington while he ate his noonday lunches. It lost its job a good many years ago, and had no successors, as presidents do not now indulge the simplicity of eating lunch under a shade tree. It was grown to large proportions, being about ninety feet high and very large. About ten feet from the ground it forked and has grown up, as elms usually do, in branches.

These forks, on account of its great weight and the sudden wind storms to which this climate is incident, have made it difficult to preserve this tree in its original symmetry. Formerly iron bands were placed around trees of this character to prevent them from breaking or being blown apart, but as the tree grew the bands would cut into it and eventually scar and kill it. Then it was found that a much more satisfactory method was to bore a hole through the tree near the forks and drive a huge iron bolt through. The hole would be hermetically sealed to prevent rotting, and as the tree would grow the head and tap would sink into the tree and disappear from view. This method is still being followed, except that it has been decided best to put the bolt through some distance above the forks and thus furnish greater support and a greater stay against unusual strain. The trunk has been carefully treated and doctored to prevent it from rotting, but of late years it has become hollow in spite of them. This hollow is drained so that it will keep dry and decay be arrested as much as possible. All this involves considerable trouble, but the great age of this tree, together with its excellent state of preservation and its healthy foliage shows that more attention upon the part of individuals having valuable trees would be well and profitably placed.

A perusal of the last report of Pension Commissioner Davenport reveals the following facts which may be of more or less interest: There were at the close of the last fiscal year 921,083 pensioners on the rolls of this government. Of these 562,615 were on account of the civil war, 8,401 were on account of the war with Mexico, 4,382 on account of the Indian wars, 338 are widows on account of the war of 1812, and 1 on account of the revolutionary war. The last mentioned is Mrs. Phoebe M. Palmer, aged 89 years, of Brookfield, N. Y., pensioned by a special act of congress as the daughter of Jonathan Woolley, who served in a

New Hampshire company. The last widow pensioner of that war was Esther S. Damon of Plymouth Union, Vt., who died November 11, 1906, aged 92 years. The last survivor of the war of the revolution was Daniel F. Bakeman, who died at Freedom, Cattaraugus county, N. Y., April 5, 1869, aged 109 years 6 months and 8 days.

The last surviving pensioned soldier of the war of 1812 was Hiram Cronk of Ava, N. Y., who died May 13, 1905, aged 105 years and 16 days.

The annual value of the pension roll was $158,332,391, the average annual pension being $171.90. The average pension rate has increased rapidly during the last few years, owing to increases obtained under new laws and special pensions granted by act of congress. The largest of all the disbursing agencies is Topeka, Kan., which paid out for pensions over $13,600,000. In 1880 the total number of pensioners was 250,862, and they drew an annual amount of $56,689,229, so that the number on the rolls has increased four fold, and the amount paid out is now three times as great as thirty years ago.

The cost of maintaining this department last year was $2,657,673, while the total cost since 1866 has been $118,362,734. Between 1790 and 1905 the total amount paid for pensions was $96,445,444, but since 1865 the government has paid out as pensions $3,976,611,125, practically four billion dollars. The number of certificates issued last year was the smallest number issued during any one year for the last ten years being 97,242.

Among the survivors of the civil war there is one aged 108, one aged 107, one aged 103 and seven aged 98 years. There are 425,994 above the age of 62, and there are 2,910 survivors of the Mexican war, all above 72. Among the pensions granted by special act of congress during the second session of the last congress, which numbered 6,063, there were sixty-three for $50 per quarter and one each for $55, $60, $72, $75 and $100.

The number of pieces of mail received and sent out during the year by the pension department was 2,757,486, or an average of about 9,000 per day. Of the 11,369 bills introduced at the present session of the house it is safe to say about 10,000 of them are special pension bills, and there are a number of new general pension bills introduced. How many of them will become laws remains to be seen. One bill proposes to pension all men over 65, and twenty-five years citizens of this country, by giving them employment with nothing to do at a salary of $19 per month.

BRICKER TO ATLANTA

ACCEPTED CALL SUNDAY FROM THAT CHURCH.

TO LEAVE IN 3 WEEKS

The Maryville Minister Preached at Atlanta, Ga., Sunday and Pleased the Congregation.

Mrs. L. O. Bricker received a telegram Monday morning from Dr. Bricker, who preached at Atlanta, Ga., Sunday, stating that he had accepted the call to the pastorate of the First Christian church of that city, and that he would begin his work there in three weeks.

Dr. Bricker left Maryville a week ago in response to several letters and a telegram requesting him to come and preach before the congregation of that church with a view of receiving a call to that work. He responded to the request, but did not expect to have opportunity of accepting or rejecting the call, as he did not think the church would be satisfied with him, considering the men whom have preceded him as pastor. But it seems that the Maryville man has made good and the congregation was not long in deciding that he was the man they were looking for.

Dr. Bricker has been pastor of the First Christian church here the past two and a half years. His work has been eminently successful and every department is in fine condition, especially the Bible school. He is an eloquent preacher and has the faculty of holding his congregation throughout the year.

The church to which he is called has a membership of 1,200 members, representing a large amount of wealth. The church building cost $125,000 and is the third in valuation in the Christian church brotherhood. Several of the best ministers in that denomination in the country have held pastorates with this congregation, and it is a high compliment to Dr. Bricker's ability and standing as a minister. He has many friends in Maryville who will learn of his going from our city with deep regret.

It is further understood that your city will keep in condition and proper repair at least two other good animal watering places in the way of cement troughs."

All of the conditions will be complied with by the city.

AVIATOR'S THREE AWFUL MINUTES

Astley Had Three Terrific Bouts With Death.

IN STRANGE RACING MACHINE

At One Time He Flew Through the Air at a Height of Three Hundred Feet, Grasping Rod With One Hand—Hair Raising Performance.

One of the most hair raising performances ever put up on an aeroplane was given at the Brooklands aerodrome, near London, by the British aviator, H. de D. Astley, who is a cousin of the Marquis of Hastings. Astley was flying a fifty horsepower Bleriot racing monoplane for the first time.

His first lap of the aerodrome was a series of up and down dives, which looked as if he were sitting a bucking broncho, only each buck took him forty feet up and down again. Then he got the weight of the machine into his hands and steadied her down for a second lap. Feeling he had got full control, he took her up to a height of 300 feet, where he was flying quite nicely when a gust of wind caught him and turned him up on to his left wing tip, and he began to drop sideways.

Sat in the Air.

Knowing his only chance of righting himself was to drive head first out of the gust, he pulled the tail of the machine up in the air, switched off his engine and dived for it. Just as he got the monoplane diving quite straight he accidentally touched the switch, and the engine started again full blast. The sudden pull of the big engine, added to the weight of the machine, jerked the whole apparatus from under Astley, who was left for a fraction of a second sitting in the air.

He grabbed the first thing that came along, and when he came to himself sufficiently to think he found himself sitting astride the frame of the machine, hanging on to the top rails of the frame with both hands and looking straight down into the seat he had quitted. Meantime the machine, absolutely without control, was heading full speed for the ground, now only about 150 feet below him. Fortunately for him his weight, being so far back, made itself felt, and at about 100 feet from the earth the tail dropped and the machine started climbing skyward again.

Given Up For Dead.

The other aviators on the ground had given him up for dead as he made his dive, and now they gave him up again, for the machine climbed perfectly vertically, and no one had ever seen a machine going aloft hanging on to its propeller and nothing else. They simply stood and waited for the machine to start dropping backward. There was nothing else to do.

Then Astley pulled himself together and clawed himself up the frame so that by holding on with his right hand he could catch hold of the control wheel with his left, but he could not get into his seat so as to get his feet on the rudder levers. By this time the aeroplane had climbed to a height of about 400 feet and was still rising.

As soon as he had got partial control Astley said to himself "This is where I start for home again" and jammed his control wheel hard forward. The tail came up, and the machine got on a level keel and steadied herself. Then he raised the tail a bit more, and, looking over the front of the machine, meanwhile lying flat on his stomach on top of the frame, he saw below him the sewage farm which covers and spoils a big portion of the Brooklands aerodrome.

"That's the safest part of Brooklands. Me for it!" thought Astley, and up he brought his tail still more, so starting another dive for earth. Having no rudder control and no means of getting any, he could not turn. All he could do was to regulate his up and down flight and keep the machine from heeling over sideways; consequently if he missed the sewage farm he would hit the railway embankment, which forms the limit of the aerodrome, and his only chance was to drive straight into the sewage.

Lands Unhurt.

Down he came, engine running all out, and again the onlookers gave him up for lost. Twenty feet from the ground he let go with his right hand, made a dab for the switch and cut out his engine. Then he hauled his lever back, dropped his tail, and the machine came up level, to drop gently into the soft mud of the sewage farm, where the wheels stuck and the monoplane quietly stood on her head, decanting Astley over the top of the engine into the dirt.

Not results, a couple of broken wires and all the buttons pulled off Astley's overalls as he clawed himself on his stomach along the frame, and this after being dead for certain three times.

Luminous Compass.

It has been decided to adopt a luminous compass in the German army, and it will be used in military maneuvers so as to allow the troops to find their direction without trouble. Very good results are expected from its use. The compass will have a dial prepared with luminous paint, so that it may be seen in the dark.

THE TEXANS ARE SMILING AT UNCLE SAM'S TROOPS

What Was at First Exciting to Them They Are Now Poking Fun At

Soldiers Wander About, Drink Large Glasses of Beer and Eat Soggy Pie

W AELIKE enthusiasm has exhausted itself in San Antonio, and the soldiers have become a joke. They fairly crowd the streets, going about purchasing picture postcards and such other little things as the limited pay of the soldier will provide. The people now laugh at the breakfast table when they discuss this mobilization. They have begun to think the whole affair is funny.

The change in public sentiment is sudden and so typically American as to be worthy of comment. When the soldiers came they were a serious consideration. There are enough railroad men in Texas who have done service in Mexico to make a fairly big anti-Mexico party. Railroad men have been inside of about all the prisons there are in that country, and naturally they don't feel kindly toward it. They hoped the soldiers would stop here a day to furnish a base of supplies and move on into the country below the Rio Grande. But they didn't. They have interested the entire civilized world by their coming. They are 15,000 strong in San Antonio without taking into account the force at Galveston. They have caused the shipment of tons of ammunition and trainloads of supplies. They have used tons of supplies, but they haven't used any ammunition, and the Texas conception of a soldier is that he should use ammunition liberally, whether he has any supplies or not. The soldiers don't know what they are going to do next. The average Texan when he takes his gun in hand knows what he is going to do next, so he thinks the soldiers are in very much the position of a clear store Indian with his tomahawk suspended in midair.

The Soldiers' Life.

In the interim the soldiers wander about through the camp, drink big glasses of beer from the newly constructed saloons and eat soggy pie at sorry looking pie counters constructed of rough pine boards. These saloons are picturesque. They look like the quick creations of the men who cater to the needs of home seekers rushing to newly opened public lands. The camp is almost surrounded by saloons and restaurants and newsstands of this sort. It looks as if the soldiers have been captured or at least surrounded and rather effectually penned in. They must pass through this barrier of pine boards and get away with what few nickels they can conceal if they want to reach the city.

The soldiers have been making themselves popular here. They are behaving excellently. It is a matter worthy of comment that soldiers have always behaved well at San Antonio. The city is a "wide open town," to use the western phrase. That is to say, a man can get into all the trouble he wants, and he does not have to look far for it. One fact which tends to prevent trouble is the small negro population of this city. As a result of this small negro population there is very little race feeling. In fact, one might say there is probably less race prejudice in San Antonio than in any other city in the south. There are still towns in this territory where the negro does not reside because he is not permitted to do so. But San Antonio is cosmopolitan.

Merchants Happy.

Merchants are still rejoicing at the enormous orders they receive from the government for supplies. The government is reputed to pay rather regularly and is looked upon as a good customer.

As the camp grows older the officers are more and more pleased with the preliminary arrangements made for the mobilization here. Considering the extremely small time allowed for planning the camp, the work is a monument to the progress of American army officers along this line. The officers are dignified persons who take a big share in the social life of the city and have an air about them which is different from the manner of the westerner in even the most select society. They are a bit formal, they suggest the east, they are probably as different from the westerner as the Englishman of an old family is from the American of New York, but they are making many friends here.

Regulars Versus Militiamen.

Military men here are inclined to take the militia and its instruction lightly. They will not on that account be any the less energetic in training the militia and instructing militia officers, but it is really remarkable what an imposing array of indictments can be drawn by regular officers against the American militia. The regulars are inclined to think a good wetting would put about 50 per cent of them in the hospital. It is also pointed out that the soldier needs about twice as much training now as he did half a century ago. The regulars are inclined to think a militiaman is a little better than nothing and that after a year in the field had decimated the force the remaining men would be fairly good soldiers.

The maneuvers of the artillery are by far the most interesting. Artillery going into action at full speed is about the most thrilling sight one can witness.

Rise and Progress of Mexican Revolt, Overthrowing Diaz In Six Months

Reception to Normal Students.

Some three hundred or over of the Normal students and faculty spent a most pleasant evening at the reception given by President and Mrs. H. K. Taylor Friday night at their home. The large and beautiful lawn of the Normal residence was used for the occasion, and the Japanese lanterns hung among the pine trees gave a very pleasing effect. The first part of the evening was given over to a program, which was interesting enough to hold the attention of everyone, in spite of the hot weather. Miss Alma Nash's orchestra gave several excellent numbers on the program, and played throughout the rest of the evening.

Songs by the Normal male quartet, composed of Messrs. Lona Perrin, P. O. Landon, Harry Mutz and Orlo Quinn; a mixed quartet composed of Misses Marie Jones and Nellie Wray, and Messrs. P. O. Landon and Orlo Quinn, and the solos by Miss Jones made a great hit with everyone.

Mr. Hawkins, alias Mr. Deepthought, gave an emotional address, which had a very telling effect on the audience, as it was delivered in German. Prof. Landon says that Mr. Hawkins did nothing but repeat the German alphabet over and over and over.

Prof. Moore gave some excellent Edison record impersonations, while the readings of Miss Kinney and Mr. Miller were very good.

The rest of the evening was given over to a general social time and the business of getting acquainted. The refreshments were served on the lawn to the people wherever they happened to be, and consisted of delicious pineapple ice and wafers.

The company did not break up until 11 o'clock.

Townsend Afternoon Tea.

Miss Alma Nash's orchestra was stationed in an alcove, screened by asparagus ferns in the reception hall, where Mrs. George B. Baker received the guests and showed them to the pink parlor, where they were met by Mrs. Ferdinand M. Townsend, who presented Mrs. Bohm, when they were greeted by Mrs. Edward L. Townsend and Mrs. Lavencourt Michau. In the Japanese living room Mrs. F. G. Shoemaker received, assisted by Mrs. George L. Wilfley, Mrs. Edward Forsyth and Mrs. Ralph Eversole. In the dining room Mrs. Fred P. Robinson and Mrs. Luther E. Forsyth presided, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Jackson, Jr., and Miss Esther Shoemaker. The mahogany table had a pink satin cover laid with Venetian lace doilies. Two cut glass vases filled with pink carnations formed the centerpiece. Four pink satin ribbon streamers, fastened with large bows at the dome of the chandeliers, extended to the base of the vases, where they were again secured by means of four large bows. Pink ice cream and cakes, and pink mints were served here. Mrs. Edward F. Wolfert received in the billiard room, where Mrs. J. F. Colby, assisted by Mrs. G. E. Alexander and Miss Susie Ellison served ice tea and wafers.

Mr. and Mrs. Bohm left Monday morning for a month's visit with relatives in Minneapolis, before returning to Denver, Col. They expect to leave the first of next January for a trip around the world, and on their return, about five months later, will again visit Maryville. Mr. and Mrs. Bohm were delighted with our little city, and say it is the prettiest little town they have seen.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Epperson spent Sunday at the home of their son, Charles Epperson, south of Maryville.

ARMY TERM FOR COLLEGE BOYS

Gen. Wood Favors Six Months' Enlistment After Graduation.

HELP MAN, ARMY AND NATION

General Regards Plan Feasible and One That Would Do Great Good. Would Provide Separate Organization For the Purpose.

Washington, June 12.—General Leonard Wood believes he has solved the problem of giving the United States the best army in the world. In brief, the plan is to give all the college graduates at least the rudiments of a military training by an actual enlistment in the army for a term of six months or a year after graduation.

General Wood points out that when in 1863 the army of the south needed men and more ammunition, the students of Virginia military institute (often called the West Point of the south), marched out in a body to the support of the Confederacy. The ages of these young soldiers ranged from fourteen to eighteen years. The service they rendered forms one of the bright pages of the history of the civil war.

General Wood's idea is to have every young man as he graduates from college enlist in the regular army under a special enlistment for six months or a year, the choice of the period to be left to the recruit. These young men are to have their own organization with the exception of the officers. Their service and discipline will be the same as those of the regular troops and will be in the field.

"If every young man graduating from college would enlist for six months and spend the time in the field, in a few years the United States could send thousands of experienced soldiers into service if the need should arise," said General Wood.

"Such enlistment by the college man would help him, the army and the nation."

BOYER ARRESTED IN CHICAGO

Son of Iowa Banker Is Accused of Wholesale Forgery.

Chicago, June 12.—Edgar Robert Boyer, note teller of the Hamilton National bank up to the time of its recent consolidation with the National City bank, was arrested while cashing an alleged forged check at the Central Trust company.

In his pockets were found $10,000 in promissory notes signed with the alleged forged signature of D. M. Frederiksen, president of the Scandinavian Land company. The check which Boyer was attempting to cash was the fifth presented within the week, all bearing Frederiksen's signature.

Boyer is a son of R. E. Boyer, cashier of the Creston National bank of Creston, Ia.

In Boyer's room in a hotel was found a mass of documents bearing alleged forged signatures of George W. Perkins, M. E. Schiff, Ira M. Cobe, F. Weyerhaeuser, G. H. Wilson, L. M. Frederiksen, Thomas F. Ryan, J. O. Flint, Henry Meyer and Cobe & McKinnon.

Bank detectives who caused Boyer's arrest say he had represented himself as a partner with Perkins, Ryan and Schiff, and substantiated his claim with an alleged forged agreement signed with their names. The document was an agreement to form a company with $1,000,000 capital to hold the stock and float the bonds of a power company in the state of Washington.

Boyer made no attempt to give bond and was locked up.

BEGIN REHEARSAL FOR CORONATION

Britons Drilling for Parts They Are to Take in Ceremony.

SLUMP IN PRICES FOR SEATS.

Four American Women, Aside From Peeresses, to Witness Crowning of King George and Queen Mary in Westminster Abbey, June 22.

London, June 12.—Actual rehearsal of coronation ceremonies began last week in Westminster abbey. All the participants are to be drilled in details of what to do, just as in a stage performance, and the king and queen will familiarize themselves with the rubric, so as to insure that the coronation on June 22 will go forward without a hitch.

Meanwhile, the whole line of the route of royal progress is being fringed with stands, which will afford seating space for 750,000 spectators. An interesting question has arisen, whether in many cases the erection of these stands, blocking the view of owners and tenants of houses, is legal, and several actions at law are on the carpet. Still more certain is the fact that the slump in prices asked for points of vantage along the route shows no signs of recovery.

There are just four American women outside those who have married peers who will see King George and Queen Mary crowned and there are grievous heartburnings because of it. Of course there are thousands of American women who will see their majesties on the way to and from the abbey, but just these are to have the privilege of witnessing the ceremony of the coronation itself.

Mrs. John Hays Hammond, wife of President Taft's special ambassador; Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, wife of the ambassador; Mrs. John Ward, formerly Miss Jean Reid, whose husband is an official of the coronation, and Mrs. William Phillips, whose husband is charge d'affaires at the American embassy.

Women of American birth, who are now British peeresses, who will be in attendance at the abbey, are: Duchess of Manchester, Lady Decies, Lady Carrington, Viscountess Maldstone, Duchess of Roxbury, marchioness of Dufferin, countess of Ancaster, countess of Essex, Lady Chevellemore, countess of Granard, countess of Tankerville, countess of Suffolk, Lady Abinger, Lady Ritchie, countess of Donoughmore, Lady Monson, Lady Leith of Fyvie, Lady Newborough and Lady Paget.

MADERO GIVES OUT PLANS

De La Barra and Reyes to Be Members of Cabinet.

Mexico City, June 12.—"If I should be elected president, Senor de la Barra will be minister of foreign relations and General Reyes will be minister of war in my cabinet," said Francisco I. Madero at Chapultepec castle, where he talked with President de la Barra and General Reyes. Both men have consented to accept these portfolios. The meeting was accidental. Madero had been consulting with President de la Barra about the political situation when General Reyes appeared. Madero was asked to remain. A frank discussion of the situation ensued.

General Reyes said: "It is true I am going to be minister of war if Senor Madero is elected. I am not going to be a candidate for the presidency or participate in the elections."

LINERS WAITING FOR COAL

Strike of Porters at Southampton Is Tying Up Many Large Vessels.

Southampton, England, June 12.—The White Star line yielded to the demands of the seamen and agreed to pay a crew for the Olympic the same rate of wages as are received by the crews of the Mauretania and Lusitania.

The strike of coal porters has become serious. A number of outside laborers who had been brought here quit work, claiming they had been induced to take the place of the strikers through false pretenses. The idle men are appealing to the coal porters at other ports to join with them in launching a general strike.

The port is overcrowded with liners waiting for coal.

WILL HUNT ONLY WITH BOWS

Thompson of Seattle, all expert archers, will start July 2 for a hunting trip in British Columbia, armed only with bows, arrows, hunting knives and fishing tackle. All firearms are barred. The men expect to hunt mountain lions, bear and deer.

Thieves Busy at Prize Fight.

Hammond, Ind., June 12.—Thirty empty pocketbooks found on the floor of the arena after the close of the Clabby-Brown fight here spelled the last of prize fighting in this city. The board of police commissioners issued an order forbidding any bouts in the future.

Big Company Here.

Hunt & Troy and their popular players, a company of thirty-five people, arrived yesterday afternoon on the Wabash at 7:11 p. m. They came from Chillicothe, where they played a two weeks' engagement to capacity business. The Press there gave them much favorable comment and said, "the best company in year." They will open the engagement here tonight with that most laughable comedy drama, "A Wise Fool." This play gives Jack Hunt and Jessie Troy, the people's favorites, ample opportunity to show their cleverness and ability to entertain. The supporting company is the strongest ever seen with a similar attraction under canvas, and includes such people as Arnold, C. Baldwin, Cettie Elliott, Clair Price, Nina Bruns, Orville Mathews, Helen Tuttle, Edward Makelke, Edward Thardo, and other well known performers. Since looking over the situation the management has decided to change the entrance from the south end on Fourth street to the north end on West Fifth street, making it materially better for the public, for in case of rain there will be a good grantoid walk and pavement right up to the entrance. If you do not know where to go follow the crowd and the band with the red coats and caps.

To Those who "Refuse" the Paper.

The Kansas City court of appeals last week handed down a decision which is of interest to all newspaper publishers and should be brought to the attention of those dead-head subscribers who accept a paper for a year or so and then throw it back at the postoffice marked "refused." Here is the court's decision:

Taking a paper out of the postoffice makes the recipient liable for the bill. O. D. Austin, a Butler, Mo., publisher, sent his paper to Charles Burges. The latter paid for it twice.

Three Big Conventions Held in Philadelphia This Week.

Philadelphia, June 12.—Baptists from many lands will assemble in Philadelphia this week to attend three big conventions to consider denominational measures and to promote unity and efficiency in efforts to evangelize the world.

The northern Baptist convention, representing more than a million and a quarter of Baptists in northern states, holds a six days' meeting beginning tomorrow. The general convention of the Baptists of North America, representing the entire United States and Canada, will hold a single session on June 19. The Baptist World alliance will open its sessions on June 19, and will meet daily until the 25th. Great interest is expected to center in the visit of the foreign delegations, consisting of about 300 from Great Britain and about 100 from the continent. English Baptists and American Baptists differ somewhat in matters of ecclesiastical arrangements.

DATE FOR VOTING ON RECIPROCITY

Senate Will Probably Take Action About July 15.

PROPHECY BY SENATOR SMOOT

Utah Man of the Opinion That Measure Will Pass With Root Amendment Tacked On—Underwood Lays Plans for a Deadlock.

Washington, June 12.—The senate will probably vote on the Canadian reciprocity agreement about July 15 and congress will adjourn about July 27. That is the prophecy of Senator Reed Smoot of Utah after a visit to the White House. Senator Smoot, though absolutely opposed to the agreement, is of the opinion that when the vote is taken it will carry by a safe majority, though perhaps the Root amendment may be tacked to it.

"The Democratic house will not accept the Root amendment to the Canadian reciprocity agreement." This statement was made by Representative Underwood of Alabama, chairman of the ways and means committee. His intention to fight the amendment to the limit in the event that it is approved by the senate forecasts a possible deadlock between the two houses which may prolong the session of congress indefinitely.

It is the intention to make reciprocity the unfinished business after tomorrow, and the senate leaders will insist that discussion be maintained day after day and there be no lagging.

WRECK VICTIMS IMPROVING

Seven Men Injured on the Burlington Will All Live.

Holdrege, Neb., June 12.—The seven victims of the Indiana wreck on the Burlington, brought here for treatment, are all on the road to recovery. The most pathetic cases are those of D. Hart of Mount Pleasant, Ia., and L. B. Thomas of Lincoln.

Mr. Hart's mind has been clouded most of the time since the wreck. In his lucid moments he says he has no relatives. He is a laboring man, who was a passenger on train No. 9. His injuries consist of cuts about the head.

Thomas, a colored man, was terribly burned about the face and hands. He is recovering very slowly.

David Striker of Chicago, whose skull was fractured, is recovering nicely.

R. M. Anderson of Washington was cut about the head by flying splinters, one of which pierced his neck but a fraction of an inch from the jugular vein. He is recovering rapidly and is anxious to proceed on his journey to California.

D. W. Burnett of McCook is able to leave his room, a broken arm being the only remaining evidence he bears of the accident.

WITNESSES FOR DEFENSE

Sisters of Lillian Graham, Who Shot Stokes, Start for New York.

New York, June 12.—Sisters of Lillian Graham, the young Seattle girl who, with Ethel Conrad, is locked up here on the charge of shooting millionaire W. E. D. Stokes, are hurrying to her defense, according to a statement made by counsel representing the young women.

Mrs. John Singleton, sister of Miss Graham and a society woman of Los Angeles, is on her way to New York from London, with important papers bearing upon the case. These letters, it is said, will not only gain freedom for the two young women, but will also clear away the mystery which surrounds the case.

Mrs. Alice Andrews of Los Angeles, another sister, is with Mrs. Griffin.

HUNTING GERMS IN HOTELS

Dr. Crumrine May Recommend That Roller Towel Be Discarded.

Topeka, June 12.—The experts in the office of the state board of health went out last week and captured a number of roller towels that were being used in hotels in different parts of the state and they are now engaged in making a census of the different kinds of germs upon them.

From the result of the count of the bacterial population, Dr. Crumrine will make his recommendations to the board as to what action shall be taken. It is expected he will recommend an order to be followed by a stringent law prohibiting the use of roller towels in public places.

J. D. Bren Is Out on Bond.

How a Maryville Citizen Found Complete Freedom From Kidney Troubles.

If you suffer from backache—

From urinary disorders—

From any disease of the kidneys,

Be cured to stay cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills make lasting cures.

Maryville people testify.

Here's one case of it:

I. M. Woods, East Jenkins street, Maryville, Mo., says: "For some time kidney trouble had been lurking in my system, and although it did not bother me to any extent, I could see that the attacks were becoming more frequent and severe. Finally my kidneys became so badly disordered that I was obliged to seek relief. The kidney secretions were unnatural and so irregular in passage as to annoy me greatly. I also had a pain in my back and could hardly stoop. Dizzy spells and headaches were common, and I was in a miserable condition when I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills. I began their use, and after I had taken the contents of three boxes I was free from kidney trouble." (Statement given in 1901.)

Time Is the Test.

On September 19, 1908, Mr. Wood added to the above: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills effected in my case several years ago has been permanent. I am glad to again recommend this splendid remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn & Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Money Invested in a Home Brings You Real Rewards

that cannot be measured alone in dollars and cents. There's satisfaction in knowing you have a home when possibly all other investments fail—it gives you a feeling of security and demands the recognition of your fellow townsmen, because by building you show your faith in the future of the community. And every community is known by its deeds. You can help and at the same time help yourself. A home investment is always the most meritorious, and loss is less likely because you are dealing in values you understand and with people you know. We have supplied the lumber for the homes of many of your friends who are now on the road to success, and want to talk with you whenever you're ready.

A business meeting of the two classes is called for Tuesday evening to make arrangements for the reception. All are urgently requested to be present.

Miss Beaumont, "Toastmistress."

For the first time, a woman will preside as toastmaster at the annual banquet of the Central High School Alumni association of St. Joseph, which will be held Tuesday night at the Hotel Robidoux. Miss Anna Lee Beaumont is the young woman on whom that honor has just been conferred. She is teacher of English in the Central high school. Miss Beaumont is well-known socially in Maryville, having visited here as the guest of Miss Lulu Todd and Miss Helen Leffler.

W. R. C. Entertained.

The Woman's Relief Corps met informally at the home of Mrs. S. H. Townsend, on East Fourth street, Saturday afternoon for a social time in honor of Mrs. Hugh McIntosh and Mrs. M. M. Deming, who are moving to their new home in Omaha. ### Professor Emberson to Wed.

Professor R. H. Emberson, formerly of the department of pedagogy of the Northwest Normal, but now of the faculty of the college of agriculture of the state university, is to be married this week to Miss Lulu Guthrie of St. Louis, formerly of Columbia. The Columbia Tribune of Saturday said:

"Prof. R. H. Emberson of the faculty of the college of agriculture of the University of Missouri, where he holds the chair of rural education, will marry Miss Lulu Guthrie, formerly of Columbia, and remembered here as a popular teacher in the public schools. The license to marry was issued to Professor Emberson yesterday.

"Professor Emberson is one of the best known educators in Missouri, was for several years superintendent of schools here, and is the first man in the United States to hold a chair of rural education. As a member of the university faculty, Professor Emberson has toured Missouri in the interest of better schools, has visited most of the counties in the state, and is known personally to most of the school teachers of the state. On these trips, many of them through the heart of the Ozarks, where it was necessary to go horseback or afoot to reach remote districts, Professor Emberson has gathered valuable data regarding the rural schools, and is regarded as the best informed man on this subject to be found in the state. His manly character and progressive spirit have won him friends all over Missouri."

PAPER DRINKING CUP

A SANITARY DRAUGHT WITHIN REACH OF EVERYBODY.

6-INCH SQUARE OF PAPER

Makes a Fresh, Clean Cup from Which to Drink Whenever and Wherever Desired.

Prof. Shepard, manual training instructor at the Normal, is teaching the students how to make individual paper drinking cups. Their many advantages, cheapness and the ease with which they are made will probably be of interest to many people.

Oiled paper is preferable for making these cups, but any clean paper, such as writing paper or drawing paper may be used. This paper should be cut into square sheets. A sheet five or six inches square makes a convenient size. Now take one of these sheets and fold it on the diagonal, making a triangle. Then fold each of the two upper corners—that is, the corners opposite the first fold made—down so that their tips come close to the bottom of the sheet where the first fold was made. The farther down these upper corners are turned the smaller will be the cup. Now temporarily straighten these two corners out again. Then fold the two lower corners in so that their outer or separate edges lie along the folds made by the two upper corners. The lower corners should be folded on opposite sides of the cup to give more stability. Next fold the upper corners down again, each on its respective side and outside of all other folds. Open the cup with the fingers and it is ready for use, to be thrown away and a new one made next time. Or, if it is absolutely necessary to use the same cup over again it can be flattened out, occupying practically no space at all.

Such a cup can be made at any time, is at least five times cheaper than the commercial paper cup which is obtained by dropping a penny in the slot, and occupies less space than any other cup made.

For travelers it is almost indispensable. They often find themselves in a place where the law forbids the use of a public drinking cup and no provision for individual cups has been made. Many people have actually experienced painful thirst in such conditions. Five cents worth of oiled paper can be slipped into any suitcase, grip or shopping bag and is enough to make twenty cups.

The use of such a cup in the schools would be a great benefit. It has an advantage over the individual cups of tin which many children carry to school, inasmuch as it is used only once and has no chance to collect dust. And children are not overly careful of the cleanliness of their possessions. Each child would have a package of the sheets of oiled paper in his desk or a large amount of it could be kept in the room for general use, and each one could make a cup as he needed it.

The value of such a cup from the sanitary standpoint alone is invaluable, and its cheapness puts it within the reach of all. Its use by the people of the community would be a great benefit to everybody.

DIETZ HAD CAUSE FOR TROUBLE IN NEB. CITY

We knew that Dietz had cause for his trouble in Nebraska City last week. There had been a little dispute on the grounds, and the umpire had sent Dietz back to his position behind the plate. That evening the umpire visited a saloon or two, and coming out upon the streets began to abuse Dietz profanely to a crowd of fans, not knowing that our little catcher was within hearing. Dietz stood the insults as long as he could and then taught the umpire a lesson by knocking him down. When consciousness again came to the fallen man he apologized to Dietz for his actions, and all personal enmity was smoothed. As the trouble was entirely personal and took place off the ball grounds, nothing was done to Dietz by the officers of the league.

Miss Clara Shrader of Pickering was taken to the hospital Monday morning by Dr. J. R. Herford, where she underwent an operation.

HOW TO CARE FOR TREES

The Method Used By the Superintendent of Grounds at Washington Worthy of Study.

By VAN CLEVE.

Washington, D. C., June 8.—Those of our friends who have valuable orchards, sometimes unprofitable from want of proper attention might get a valuable lesson from the care and study devoted to the preservation of the trees about the capitol grounds here in Washington. The many beautiful trees that adorn these grounds include specimens from every similar climate in the world, and much attention is given them to keep them in healthy condition and to preserve their beauty.

Through the summer season these trees are sprayed with different solutions with portable sprays in which the water is forced to a considerable height by pressure from a gasoline engine. The tank and engine are mounted on wheels and the machine costs about $1,200. The superintendent of the grounds says that many who attempt to spray make the mistake of throwing the solution over the tree so that it falls on top of the leaf. The top surface of a leaf is hard and glazed and the insects that destroy the leaves invariably work on the under side, because that is tender and palatable. He therefore has the hose taken in under the tree and throws the solution up from under the tree. As men do not want the poisonous solution to fall upon them more than is necessary, they stand next to the trunk of the tree and ply the hose under the outer edge first, and then step out and throw it up close to the center of the foliage.

Just in front of the capitol building stands a huge elm which has had unusual care. It is said to be about 200 years old, and bears the distinction of having furnished shade for General Washington while he ate his noonday lunches. It lost its job a good many years ago, and had no successors, as presidents do not now indulge the simplicity of eating lunch under a shade tree. It was grown to large proportions, being about ninety feet high and very large. About ten feet from the ground it forked and has grown up, as elms usually do, in branches.

These forks, on account of its great weight and the sudden wind storms to which this climate is incident, have made it difficult to preserve this tree in its original symmetry. Formerly iron bands were placed around trees of this character to prevent them from breaking or being blown apart, but as the tree grew the bands would cut into it and eventually scar and kill it. Then it was found that a much more satisfactory method was to bore a hole through the tree near the forks and drive a huge iron bolt through. The hole would be hermetically sealed to prevent rotting, and as the tree would grow the head and tap would sink into the tree and disappear from view. This method is still being followed, except that it has been decided best to put the bolt through some distance above the forks and thus furnish greater support and a greater stay against unusual strain. The trunk has been carefully treated and doctored to prevent it from rotting, but of late years it has become hollow in spite of them. This hollow is drained so that it will keep dry and decay be arrested as much as possible. All this involves considerable trouble, but the great age of this tree, together with its excellent state of preservation and its healthy foliage shows that more attention upon the part of individuals having valuable trees would be well and profitably placed.

A perusal of the last report of Pension Commissioner Davenport reveals the following facts which may be of more or less interest: There were at the close of the last fiscal year 921,983 pensioners on the rolls of this government. Of these 562,615 were on account of the civil war, 8,401 were on account of the war with Mexico, 4,382 on account of the Indian wars, 338 are widows on account of the war of 1812, and 1 on account of the revolutionary war. The last mentioned is Mrs. Phoebe M. Palmer, aged 89 years, of Brookfield, N. Y., pensioned by a special act of congress as the daughter of Jonathan Woolley, who served in a

New Hampshire company. The last widow pensioner of that war was Esther S. Damon of Plymouth Union, Vt., who died November 11, 1906, aged 92 years. The last survivor of the war of the revolution was Daniel F. Bakeman, who died at Freedom, Cattaraugus county, N. Y., April 5, 1869, aged 109 years 6 months and 8 days.

The last surviving pensioned soldier of the war of 1812 was Hiram Cronk of Ava, N. Y., who died May 13, 1905, aged 105 years and 16 days.

The annual value of the pension roll was $158,332,391, the average annual pension being $171.90. The average pension rate has increased rapidly during the last few years, owing to increases obtained under new laws and special pensions granted by act of congress. The largest of all the disbursing agencies is Topeka, Kan., which paid out for pensions over $18,000,000. In 1880 the total number of pensioners was 350,862, and they drew an annual amount of $56,689,229, so that the number on the rolls has increased four fold, and the amount paid out is now three times as great as thirty years ago.

The cost of maintaining this department last year was $2,657,673, while the total cost since 1866 has been $118,362,734. Between 1790 and 1905 the total amount paid for pensions was $96,445,444, but since 1865 the government has paid out as pensions $3,976,611,125, practically four billion dollars. The number of certificates issued last year was the smallest number issued during any one year for the last ten years being 97,242.

Among the survivors of the civil war there is one aged 108, one aged 107, one aged 103 and seven aged 98 years. There are 425,594 above the age of 62, and there are 2,910 survivors of the Mexican war, all above 72. Among the pensions granted by special act of congress during the second session of the last congress, which numbered 6,963, there were sixty-three for $50 per quarter and one each for $55, $60, $72, $75 and $100.

The number of pieces of mail received and sent out during the year by the pension department was 2,757,486, or an average of about 9,000 per day. Of the 11,369 bills introduced at the present session of the house it is safe to say about 10,000 of them are special pension bills, and there are a number of new general pension bills introduced. How many of them will become laws remains to be seen. One bill proposes to pension all men over 65, and twenty-five years citizens of this country, by giving them employment with nothing to do at a salary of $19 per month.

BRICKER TO ATLANTA

ACCEPTED CALL SUNDAY FROM THAT CHURCH.

TO LEAVE IN 3 WEEKS

The Maryville Minister Preached at Atlanta, Ga., Sunday and Pleased the Congregation.

Mrs. L. O. Bricker received a telegram Monday morning from Dr. Bricker, who preached at Atlanta, Ga., Sunday, stating that he had accepted the call to the pastorate of the First Christian church of that city, and that he would begin his work there in three weeks.

Dr. Bricker left Maryville a week ago in response to several letters and a telegram requesting him to come and preach before the congregation of that church with a view of receiving a call to that work. He responded to the request, but did not expect to have opportunity of accepting or rejecting the call, as he did not think the church would be satisfied with him, considering the men whom have preceded him as pastor. But it seems that the Maryville man has made good and the congregation was not long in deciding that he was the man they were looking for.

Dr. Bricker has been pastor of the First Christian church here the past two and a half years. His work has been eminently successful and every department is in fine condition, especially the Bible school. He is an eloquent preacher and has the faculty of holding his congregation throughout the year.

The church to which he is called has a membership of 1,200 members, representing a large amount of wealth. The church building cost $125,000 and is the third in valuation in the Christian church brotherhood. Several of the best ministers in that denomination in the country have held pastorates with this congregation, and it is a high compliment to Dr. Bricker's ability and standing as a minister. He has many friends in Maryville who will learn of his going from our city with deep regret.

AVIATOR'S THREE AWFUL MINUTES

Astley Had Three Terrific Bouts With Death.

IN STRANGE RACING MACHINE

At One Time He Flew Through the Air at a Height of Three Hundred Feet, Grasping Rod With One Hand—Hair Raising Performance.

One of the most hair raising performances ever put up on an aeroplane was given at the Brooklands aerodrome, near London, by the British aviator, H. de D. Astley, who is a cousin of the Marquis of Hastings. He was flying a fifty horsepower Bleriot racing monoplane for the first time.

His first lap of the aerodrome was a series of up and down dives, which looked as if he were sitting a bucking broncho, only each buck took him forty feet up and down again. Then he got the weight of the machine into his hands and steadied her down for a second lap. Feeling he had got full control, he took her up to a height of 300 feet, where he was flying quite nicely when a gust of wind caught him and turned him up on to his left wing tip, and he began to drop sideways.

Sat in the Air.

Knowing his only chance of righting himself was to dive head first out of the gust, he pulled the tail of the machine up in the air, switched off his engine and dived for it. Just as he got the monoplane diving quite straight he accidentally touched the switch, and the engine started again full blast. The sudden pull of the big engine, added to the weight of the machine, jerked the whole apparatus from under Astley, who was left for a fraction of a second sitting in the air.

He grabbed the first thing that came along, and when he came to himself sufficiently to think he found himself sitting astride the frame of the machine, hanging on to the top rails of the frame with both hands and looking straight down into the seat he had quitted. Meantime the machine, absolutely without control, was heading full speed for the ground, now only about 150 feet below him. Fortunately for him his weight, being so far back, made itself felt, and at about 100 feet from the earth the tail dropped and the machine started climbing skyward again.

Given Up For Dead.

The other aviators on the ground had given him up for dead as he made his dive, and now they gave him up again, for the machine climbed perfectly vertically, and no one had ever seen a machine going aloft hanging on to its propeller and nothing else. They simply stood and waited for the machine to start dropping backward. There was nothing else to do.

Then Astley pulled himself together and clawed himself up the frame so that by holding on with his right hand he could catch hold of the control wheel with his left, but he could not get into his seat so as to get his feet on the rudder levers. By this time the aeroplane had climbed to a height of about 400 feet and was still rising. As soon as he had got partial control Astley said to himself "This is where I start for home again" and jammed his control wheel hard forward. The tail came up, and the machine got on a level keel and steadied herself. Then he raised the tail a bit more, and, looking over the front of the machine, meanwhile lying flat on his stomach on top of the frame, he saw below him the sewage farm which covers and spoils a big portion of the Brooklands aerodrome.

"That's the safest part of Brooklands. Me for it!" thought Astley, and up he brought his tail still more, so starting another dive for earth. Having no rudder control and no means of getting any, he could not turn. All he could do was to regulate his up and down flight and keep the machine from heeling over sideways; consequently if he missed the sewage farm he would hit the railway embankment, which forms the limit of the aerodrome, and his only chance was to drive straight into the sewage.

Lands Unhurt.

Down he came, engine running all out, and again the onlookers gave him up for lost. Twenty feet from the ground he let go with his right hand, made a dab for the switch and cut out his engine. Then he hauled his lever back, dropped his tail, and the machine came up level, to drop gently into the soft mud of the sewage farm, where the wheels stuck and the monoplane quietly stood on her head, dangling Astley over the top of the engine into the dirt.

Net results, a couple of broken wires and all the buttons pulled off Astley's overalls as he clawed himself on to his stomach along the frame, and this after being dead for certain three times.

Luminous Compass.

It has been decided to adopt a luminous compass in the German army, and it will be used in military maneuvers so as to allow the troops to find their direction without trouble. Very good results are expected from its use. The compass will have a dial prepared with luminous paint, so that it may be seen in the dark.

THE TEXANS ARE SMILING AT UNCLE SAM'S TROOPS

What Was at First Exciting to Them They Are Now Poking Fun At

Soldiers Wander About, Drink Large Glasses of Beer and Eat Soggy Pie

W ARLIKE enthusiasm has exhausted itself in San Antonio, and the soldiers have become a joke. They fairly crowd the streets, going about purchasing picture postcards and such other little things as the limited pay of the soldier will provide. The people now laugh at the breakfast table when they discuss this mobilization. They have begun to think the whole affair is funny.

The change in public sentiment is sudden and so typically American as to be worthy of comment. When the soldiers came they were a serious consideration. There are enough railroad men in Texas who have done service in Mexico to make a fairly big anti-Mexico party. Railroad men have seen the inside of about all the prisons there are in that country, and naturally they don't feel kindly toward it. They hoped the soldiers would stop here a day to furnish a base of supplies and move on into the country below the Rio Grande. But they didn't. They have interested the entire civilized world by their coming. They are 15,000 strong in San Antonio without taking into account the force at Galveston. They have caused the shipment of tons of ammunition and trainloads of supplies. They have used tons of supplies, but they haven't used any ammunition, and the Texas conception of a soldier is that he should use ammunition liberally, whether he has any supplies or not. The soldiers don't know what they are going to do next. The average Texan when he takes his gun in hand knows what he is going to do next, so he thinks the soldiers are in very much the position of a clear store Indian with his tomahawk suspended in midair.

The Soldiers' Life.

In the interim the soldiers wander about through the camp, drink big glasses of beer from the newly constructed saloons and eat soggy pie at sorry looking pie counters constructed of rough pine boards. These saloons are picturesque. They look like the quick creations of the men who cater to the needs of home seekers rushing to newly opened public lands. The camp is almost surrounded by saloons and restaurants and newsstands of this sort. It looks as if the soldiers have been captured or at least surrounded and rather effectually penned in. They must pass through this barrier of pine boards and get away with what few nickels they can conceal if they want to reach the city.

The soldiers have been making themselves popular here. They are behaving excellently. It is a matter worthy of comment that soldiers have always behaved well at San Antonio. The city is a "wide open town," to use the western phrase. That is to say, a man can get into all the trouble he wants, and he does not have to look far for it. One fact which tends to prevent trouble is the small negro population of this city. As a result of this small negro population there is very little race feeling. In fact, one might say there is probably less race prejudice in San Antonio than in any other city in the south. There are still towns in this territory where the negro does not reside because he is not permitted to do so. But San Antonio is cosmopolitan.

Merchants Happy.

Merchants are still rejoicing at the enormous orders they receive from the government for supplies. The government is reputed to pay rather regularly and is looked upon as a good customer.

As the camp grows older the officers are more and more pleased with the preliminary arrangements made for the mobilization here. Considering the extremely small time allowed for planning the camp, the work is a monument to the progress of American army officers along this line. The officers are dignified persons who take a big share in the social life of the city and have an air about them which is different from the manner of the westerner in even the most select society. They are a bit formal, they suggest the east, they are probably as different from the westerner as the Englishman of an old family is from the American of New York, but they are making many friends here.

Regulars Versus Militiamen.

Military men here are inclined to take the militia and its instruction lightly. They will not on that account be any the less energetic in training the militia and instructing militia officers, but it is really remarkable what an imposing array of indictments can be drawn by regular officers against the American militia. The regulars are inclined to think a good wetting would put about 50 per cent of them in the hospital. It is also pointed out that the soldier needs about twice as much training now as he did half a century ago. The regulars are inclined to think a militiaman is a little better than nothing and that after a year in the field had decimated the force the remaining men would be fairly good soldiers.

The maneuvers of the artillery are by far the most interesting. Artillery going into action at full speed is about the most thrilling sight one can witness.

Rise and Progress of Mexican Revolt, Overthrowing Diaz In Six Months

THE Mexican revolution, now believed to be near an end, had its inception in the candidacy of F. I. Madero, Jr., for the presidency. He was seized and put in jail by order of General Diaz, who had been declared to be re-elected. Escaping, Madero made his way across the American border and directed the insurrectionary movements from San Antonio.

Following are the chief events to date in the Mexican revolution, showing its quick and remarkable spread:

They were married in 1864, while Mr. Null was still wearing a soldier's uniform. At the close of the war they settled in the Myrtle Tree neighborhood and lived there until they retired from the farm and moved to Maryville eight years ago.

Reception to Normal Students.

Some three hundred or over of the Normal students and faculty spent a most pleasant evening at the reception given by President and Mrs. H. K. Taylor Friday night at their home. The large and beautiful lawn of the Normal residence was used for the occasion, and the Japanese lanterns hung among the pine trees gave a very pleasing effect. The first part of the evening was given over to a program, which was interesting enough to hold the attention of everyone, in spite of the hot weather. Miss Alma Nash's orchestra gave several excellent numbers on the program, and played throughout the rest of the evening.

Songs by the Normal male quartet, composed of Messrs. Lona Perrin, P. O. Landon, Harry Mutz and Orlo Quinn; a mixed quartet composed of Misses Marie Jones and Nellie Wray, and Messrs. P. O. Landon and Orlo Quinn, and the solos by Miss Jones made a great hit with everyone.

Mr. Hawkins, alias Mr. Deepthought, gave an emotional address, which had a very telling effect on the audience, as it was delivered in German. Prof. Landon says that Mr. Hawkins did nothing but repeat the German alphabet over and over and over.

Prof. Moore gave some excellent Edison record impersonations, while the readings of Miss Kinney and Mr. Miller were very good.

The rest of the evening was given over to a general social time and the business of getting acquainted. The refreshments were served on the lawn to the people wherever they happened to be, and consisted of delicious pineapple ice and wafers.

The company did not break up until 11 o'clock.

Townsend Afternoon Tea.

Mrs. Bohm wore a beautiful black beaded lace gown over heliotrope satin, with diamond jewelry. Miss Alma Nash's orchestra was stationed in an alcove, screened by asparagus ferns in the reception hall, where Mrs. George B. Baker received the guests and showed them to the pink parlor, where they were met by Mrs. Ferdinand M. Townsend, who presented Mrs. Bohm, when they were greeted by Mrs. Edward L. Townsend and Mrs. Lavencourt Michau. In the Japanese living room Mrs. F. G. Shoemaker received, assisted by Mrs. George L. Wilfley, Mrs. Edward Forsyth and Mrs. Ralph Eversole. In the dining room Mrs. Fred P. Robinson and Mrs. Luther E. Forsyth presided, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Jackson, Jr., and Miss Esther Shoemaker. The mahogany table had a pink satin cover laid with Venetian lace doilies. Two cut glass vases filled with pink carnations formed the centerpiece. Four pink satin ribbon streamers, fastened with large bows at the dome of the chandeliers, extended to the base of the vases, where they were again secured by means of four large bows. Pink ice cream and cakes, and pink mints were served here. Mrs. Edward F. Wolfert received in the billiard room, where Mrs. J. F. Colby, assisted by Mrs. G. E. Alexander and Miss Susie Ellison served ice tea and wafers.

Mr. and Mrs. Bohm left Monday morning for a month's visit with relatives in Minneapolis, before returning to Denver, Col. They expect to leave the first of next January for a trip around the world, and on their return, about five months later, will again visit Maryville. Mr. and Mrs. Bohm were delighted with our little city, and say it is the prettiest little town they have seen.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Epperson spent Sunday at the home of their son, Charles Epperson, south of Maryville.

ARMY TERM FOR COLLEGE BOYS

Gen. Wood Favors Six Months' Enlistment After Graduation.

HELP MAN, ARMY AND NATION

General Regards Plan Feasible and One That Would Do Great Good. Would Provide Separate Organization For the Purpose.

Washington, June 12.—General Leonard Wood believes he has solved the problem of giving the United States the best army in the world. In brief, the plan is to give all the college graduates at least the rudiments of a military training by an actual enlistment in the army for a term of six months or a year after graduation.

General Wood points out that when in 1863 the army of the south needed men and more ammunition, the students of Virginia military institute (often called the West Point of the south), marched out in a body to the support of the Confederacy. The ages of these young soldiers ranged from fourteen to eighteen years. The service they rendered forms one of the bright pages of the history of the civil war.

General Wood's idea is to have every young man as he graduates from college enlist in the regular army under a special enlistment for six months or a year, the choice of the period to be left to the recruit. These young men are to have their own organization with the exception of the officers. Their service and discipline will be the same as those of the regular troops and will be in the field.

"If every young man graduating from college would enlist for six months and spend the time in the field, in a few years the United States could send thousands of experienced soldiers into service if the need should arise," said General Wood. "Such enlistment by the college man would help him, the army and the nation."

BOYER ARRESTED IN CHICAGO

Son of Iowa Banker Is Accused of Wholesale Forgery.

Chicago, June 12.—Edgar Robert Boyer, note teller of the Hamilton National bank up to the time of its recent consolidation with the National City bank, was arrested while cashing an alleged forged check at the Central Trust company.

In his pockets were found $10,000 in promissory notes signed with the alleged forged signature of D. M. Frederiksen, president of the Scandinavian Land company. The check which Boyer was attempting to cash was the fifth presented within the week, all bearing Frederiksen's signature.

Boyer is a son of R. E. Boyer, cashier of the Creston National bank of Creston, Ia.

In Boyer's room in a hotel was found a mass of documents bearing alleged forged signatures of George W. Perkins, M. E. Schiff, Ira M. Cobe, F. Weyerhaeuser, G. H. Wilson, L. M. Frederiksen, Thomas F. Ryan, J. O. R. Flint, Henry Meyer and Cobe & McKinnon.

Bank detectives who caused Boyer's arrest say he had represented himself as a partner with Perkins, Ryan and Schiff, and substantiated his claim with an alleged forged agreement signed with their names. The document was an agreement to form a company with $1,000,000 capital to hold the stock and float the bonds of a power company in the state of Washington.

Boyer made no attempt to give bond and was locked up.

OUTDOORS AND LAUGHTER

Boston, June 12.—"Lots of outdoors" for adults and children was the prescription for healthy minds and bodies recommended to the national conference of charities and correction. That laughter also had its place was brought out by Seumas MacManus, who advocated a revival of story telling for children.

Chicago, June 12.—Word was received from New York that Mrs. Isalah Roabough, wife of a farmer living near Kirkland, Ill., is one of the eight heirs to a fortune of $16,000,000 left by John Colter, a New York real estate speculator, who died recently.

BEGIN REHEARSAL FOR CORONATION

Britons Drilling for Parts They Are to Take in Ceremony.

SLUMP IN PRICES FOR SEATS.

Four American Women, Aside From Peeresses, to Witness Crowning of King George and Queen Mary in Westminster Abbey, June 22.

London, June 12.—Actual rehearsal of coronation ceremonies began last week in Westminster abbey. All the participants are to be drilled in details of what to do, just as in a stage performance, and the king and queen will familiarize themselves with the rubric, so as to insure that the ceremonial on June 22 will go forward without a hitch.

Meanwhile, the whole line of the route of royal progress is being fringed with stands, which will afford seating space for 750,000 spectators. An interesting question has arisen, whether in many cases the erection of these stands, blocking the view of owners and tenants of houses, is legal, and several actions at law are on the carpet. Still more certain is the fact that the slump in prices asked for points of vantage along the route shows no signs of recovery.

There are just four American women outside those who have married peers who will see King George and Queen Mary crowned and there are grievous heartburnings because of it. Of course there are thousands of American women who will see their majesties on the way to and from the abbey, but just these are to have the privilege of witnessing the ceremony of the coronation itself.

Mrs. John Hays Hammond, wife of President Taft's special ambassador; Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, wife of the ambassador; Mrs. John Ward, formerly Miss Jean Reid, whose husband is an official of the coronation, and Mrs. William Phillips, whose husband is charge d'affaires at the American embassy.

Women of American birth, who are now British peeresses, who will be in attendance at the abbey, are: Duchess of Manchester, Lady Decies, Lady Carrington, Viscountess Maidstone, duchess of Roxbury, marchioness of Dufferin, countess of Ancaster, countess of Essex, Lady Cheylesmore, countess of Granard, countess of Tankerville, countess of Suffolk, Lady Abinger, Lady Ritchie, countess of Donoughmore, Lady Monson, Lady Leith of Fyvie, Lady Newborough and Lady Paget.

MADERO GIVES OUT PLANS

De La Barra and Reyes to Be Members of Cabinet.

Mexico City, June 12.—"If I should be elected president Senor de la Barra will be minister of foreign relations and General Reyes will be minister of war in my cabinet," said Francisco I. Madero at Chapultepec castle, where he talked with President de la Barra and General Reyes. Both men have consented to accept these portfolios. The meeting was accidental. Madero had been consulting with President de la Barra about the political situation when General Reyes appeared. Madero was asked to remain. A frank discussion of the situation ensued.

General Reyes said: "It is true I am going to be minister of war if Senor Madero is elected. I am not going to be a candidate for the presidency or participate in the elections."

LINERS WAITING FOR COAL

Strike of Porters at Southampton Is Tying Up Many Large Vessels.

Southampton, England, June 12.—The White Star line yielded to the demands of the seamen and agreed to pay a crew for the Olympic the same rate of wages as are received by the crews of the Mauretania and Lusitania.

The strike of coal porters has become serious. A number of outside laborers who had been brought here quit work, claiming they had been induced to take the place of the strikers through false pretenses. The idle men are appealing to the coal porters at other ports to join with them in launching a general strike.

The port is overcrowded with liners waiting for coal.

Thieves Busy at Prize Fight.

Big Company Here.

Hunt & Troy and their popular players, a company of thirty-five people, arrived yesterday afternoon on the Wabash at 7:11 p. m. They came from Chillicothe, where they played a two weeks' engagement to capacity business. The Press there gave them much favorable comment and said, "the best company in year." They will open the engagement here tonight with that most laughable comedy drama, "A Wise Fool." This play gives Jack Hunt and Jessie Troy, the people's favorites, ample opportunity to show their cleverness and ability to entertain. The supporting company is the strongest ever seen with a similar attraction under canvas, and includes such people as Arnold, C. Baldwin, Cecile Elliott, Clair Price, Nina Bruns, Orville Matthews, Helen Tuttle, Edward Makelke, Edward Thardo, and other well known performers. Since looking over the situation the management has decided to change the entrance from the south end on Fourth street to the north end on West Fifth street, making it materially better for the public, for in case of rain there will be a good grantoid walk and pavement right up to the entrance. If you do not know where to go follow the crowd and the band with the red coats and caps.

To Those who "Refuse" the Paper.

The Kansas City court of appeals last week handed down a decision which is of interest to all newspaper publishers and should be brought to the attention of those dead-head subscribers who accept a paper for a year or so and then throw it back at the postoffice marked "refused." Here is the court's decision:

Taking a paper out of the postoffice makes the recipient liable for the bill. O. D. Austin, a Butler, Mo., publisher, sent his paper to Charles Burges. The latter paid for it twice.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the vision of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

This remedy is sold under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agent, Koch Pharmacy.

and then refused to pay again. He said he had ordered it stopped. But a mere acceptance of the paper created a liability. It adds: "The preparation and publication of a newspaper involves mental and physical labor, as well as an outlay of money. One who accepts the paper by continuously taking it from the postoffice receives a benefit and pleasure arising from such labor and expenditure as fully as if he had appropriated any other product of another's labor, and by such act he must be held liable for the subscription price."

BAPTISTS TO GATHER FROM MANY NATIONS

Three Big Conventions Held in Philadelphia This Week.

Philadelphia, June 12.—Baptists from many lands will assemble in Philadelphia this week to attend three big conventions to consider denominational measures and to promote unity and efficiency in efforts to evangelize the world.

The northern Baptist convention, representing more than a million and a quarter of Baptists in northern states, holds a six days' meeting beginning tomorrow. The general convention of the Baptists of North America, representing the entire United States and Canada, will hold a single session on June 19. The Baptist World alliance will open its sessions on June 19, and will meet daily until the 25th.

Great interest is expected to center in the visit of the foreign delegations, consisting of about 300 from Great Britain and about 100 from the continent. English Baptists and American Baptists differ somewhat in matters of ecclesiastical arrangements.

DATE FOR VOTING ON RECIPROCITY

Senate Will Probably Take Action About July 15.

PROPHECY BY SENATOR SMOOT

Utah Man of the Opinion That Measure Will Pass With Root Amendment Tacked On—Underwood Lays Plans for a Deadlock.

Washington, June 12.—The senate will probably vote on the Canadian reciprocity agreement about July 15 and congress will adjourn about July 27. That is the prophecy of Senator Reed Smoot of Utah after a visit to the White House. Senator Smoot, though absolutely opposed to the agreement, is of the opinion that when the vote is taken it will carry by a safe majority, though perhaps the Root amendment may be tacked to it.

"The Democratic house will not accept the Root amendment to the Canadian reciprocity agreement." This statement was made by Representative Underwood of Alabama, chairman of the ways and means committee. His intention to fight the amendment to the limit in the event that it is approved by the senate forecasts a possible deadlock between the two houses which may prolong the session of congress indefinitely.

It is the intention to make reciprocity the unfinished business after tomorrow, and the senate leaders will insist that discussion be maintained day after day and there be no lagging.

WRECK VICTIMS IMPROVING

Seven Men Injured on the Burlington Will All Live.

Holdrege, Neb., June 12.—The seven victims of the Indianola wreck on the Burlington, brought here for treatment, are all on the road to recovery. The most pathetic cases are those of D. Hart of Mount Pleasant, Ia., and L. B. Thomas of Lincoln.

Mr. Hart's mind has been clouded most of the time since the wreck. In his lucid moments he says he has no relatives. He is a laboring man, who was a passenger on train No. 9. His injuries consist of cuts about the head.

Thomas, a colored man, was terribly burned about the face and hands. He is recovering very slowly.

David Striker of Chicago, whose skull was fractured, is recovering nicely.

R. M. Anderson of Washington was cut about the head by flying splinters, one of which pierced his neck but a fraction of an inch from the jugular vein. He is recovering rapidly and is anxious to proceed on his journey to California.

D. W. Burnett of McCook is able to leave his room, a broken arm being the only remaining evidence he bears of the accident.

WITNESSES FOR DEFENSE

Sisters of Lillian Graham, Who Shot Stokes, Start for New York.

New York, June 12.—Sisters of Lillian Graham, the young Seattle girl who, with Ethel Conrad, is locked up here on the charge of shooting millionaire W. E. D. Stokes, are hurrying to his defense, according to a statement made by counsel representing the young women.

Mrs. John Singleton, sister of Miss Graham and a society woman of Los Angeles, is on her way to New York from London, with important papers bearing upon the case. These letters, it is said, will not only gain freedom for the two young women, but will also clear away the mystery which surrounds the case.

Mrs. Alice Andrews of Los Angeles, another sister, is with Mrs. Griffin.

HUNTING GERMS IN HOTELS

Dr. Crumline May Recommend That Roller Towel Be Discarded.

Topeka, June 12.—The experts in the office of the state board of health went out last week and captured a number of roller towels that were being used in hotels in different parts of the state and they are now engaged in making a census of the different kinds of germs upon them.

From the result of the count of the bacterial population, Dr. Crumline will make his recommendations to the board as to what action shall be taken. It is expected he will recommend an order to be followed by a stringent law prohibiting the use of roller towels in public places.

J. D. Bren Is Out on Bond.

Bren, former treasurer of the University of Minnesota, who is charged with taking $14,000 belonging to the university and who was rearrested and placed in jail because he could not furnish $10,000 bail, as required by the court, was released when his father, brother and another wealthy resident of Minneapolis furnished the required bonds.

Colima Still Active.

Mexico City, June 12.—Colima is still in eruption and earth tremors are frequent in the vicinity of the volcano. Red Cross nurses and large quantities of supplies have been sent to the devastated districts.

CURED TO STAY CURED.

How a Maryville Citizen Found Complete Freedom From Kidney Troubles.

If you suffer from backache—From urinary disorders—From any disease of the kidneys, Be cured to stay cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills make lasting cures.

Maryville people testify. Here's one case of it:

I. M. Woods, East Jenkins street, Maryville, Mo., says: "For some time kidney trouble had been lurking in my system, and although it did not bother me to any extent, I could see that the attacks were becoming more frequent and severe. Finally my kidneys became so badly disordered that I was obliged to seek relief. The kidney secretions were unnatural and so irregular in passage as to annoy me greatly. I also had a pain in my back and could hardly stoop. Dizzy spells and headaches were common, and I was in a miserable condition when I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills. I began their use, and after I had taken the contents of three boxes I was free from kidney trouble." (Statement given in 1901.)

Time Is the Test.

On September 19, 1908, Mr. Wood added to the above: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills effected in my case several years ago has been permanent. I am glad to again recommend this splendid remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn & Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Money Invested in a Home Brings You Real Rewards

that cannot be measured alone in dollars and cents. There's satisfaction in knowing you have a home when possibly all other investments fail—it gives you a feeling of security and demands the recognition of your fellow townsmen, because by building you show your faith in the future of the community. And every community is known by its deeds. You can help and at the same time help yourself. A home investment is always the most meritorious, and loss is less likely because you are dealing in values you understand and with people you know. We have supplied the lumber for the homes of many of your friends who are now on the road to success, and want to talk with you whenever you're ready.
